It was the great opportunity to work on new arcade game, the Urban Ninja, with the main character who is a cool ninja. I created many characters for the game, but the main character is about the coolest. The main character plays as a user who is a ninja and has the ability to create new weapons which allow him to fight multiple enemies simultaneously. The player can throw it, shoot with it, manipulate it with gestures, throw it and focus, throw it and shoot with it, throw and shoot it, throw and manipulate it, manipulate it and throw it, manipulate it and throw it... I use this effect to give the feeling of power and agility in the game. The feeling of agility is based on the fact that you are trying to jump between the platform while avoiding the spikes. The neon sign at the beginning of the level is animated for the first time in the game. The start of the Level 1–2 is at the Far East Plaza and at the end of the level you can finish the level at a Lower East Plaza. Level 2–3 is at lower

Homepage: ChangeCursor.zip: Delhi: The Supreme Court on Monday agreed to hear a plea filed by the US-based Maxar Technologies and Lockheed Martin Corporation challenging the new GST regime. A bench of the apex court will now hear the matter on October 25. The petitioners challenged the amended provisions of the Goods and Services Tax (GST) Act, 2017. In their petition, Maxar Technologies and Lockheed Martin Corporation said that the GST rates determined by the GST Council constituted an additional tax on imported goods. It also alleged that a recipient of imported goods, who was a non-resident of India, could be subjected to tax levied on such goods under the new regime. Read: SC refuses to interfere with Centre's GST law The central government, in its counter, had argued that the central government did not levy any tax on imported goods. The government said that it has not issued any notifications, levying tax on imported goods. GST Council, in its seven-year-old annual report, has written in the top of the report that under the new GST regime, there will not be any additional tax. The government said that all the goods purchased by the company from abroad are levied at the existing rate of 28 per cent and under GST, the company will get the benefit of a tax rate of 18 per cent. The GST Council, consisting of representatives from various states, has revised tax rates on a range of goods and services from 1 July 2017. At present, the GST rate on goods manufactured in the country is 28 per cent, except for a slab of 5-18 per cent for small and medium enterprises, and a slab of 18-28 per cent on luxury and sin goods. Read: SC slams Centre for going against court order on tumblers of earthen jars

The highest tax rate has been kept at 28 per cent, which is applicable to the following goods — input goods, manufacturing or process goods, transport or storage services, water transport services, engineering services, computer hardware, software, leasing of computer equipment, including software, telecommunications and broadcasting services,
