A: The reason the first column is a time is because you have your times in a date format. You can use the datetime package to convert the times to datetime objects. library(lubridate) df Q: How to best create and manage hierarchy in nodes in Neo4j DB? I have a database with 700k nodes in 'organizations' and 6k nodes in 'nodes'. is there a better way to make them both in a tree hierarchy and a different datastore without downloading and connecting the entire database for 1000 of times? How do we link them both? e.g. a node should only have one parent. A: I would suggest that you break this problem down in smaller chunks. First, you have an org/node relation. That implies a parent node. Second, for each org you have a unique node property. For example organization_id. Finally, each node you want to link the org to will have this node id. The following cypher will give you an overview of how to traverse these relations to get to the data you want. MATCH (n:Organization{id:3})-[:HAS_ORG]->(org:Organization) WITH n,r,LENGTH(r.organization_id) AS some_size MATCH (n)-[:Organization-ID]->(org) 1cb139a0ed
