Many of the basic elements you need to create a good image include the following: Canvas size This is where you can place the image on the screen. Some users like the large canvas because it allows for a bigger image that covers more than one window on the screen, and others like the smaller canvas size because it allows for more fine-tuning of the image when it is uploaded to the Web. Be careful when shrinking a canvas because your editing is limited to the size of the screen, and you have to use a lot of effort to get it back to the size you started with. Levels palette You use the levels palette to change the tonal values of the image. Any image — that is, every color in the image — has a tonal value. The levels palette enables you to change the tonal value of each pixel. You can choose a color to make black, white, and all the intermediate shades of gray. This is an important editing tool, so be sure to master it. Image size The image size tool is what lets you know the size of the actual image file. This is a useful tool if you are converting an image to a size that you don't have yet, such as a .jpeg. You can drag an image around in the canvas and work on it in different areas. But beware — because you are creating a layer mask, you can't save the image until it's completely finished. Layers palette Layers is where you put your image into the program and work with it. This is the best way to create a true image — a base layer (that is, a layer in which you are building your image) and a mask layer (also known as the layer mask). You should have at least three layers in a file — a base layer, a mask layer, and a background layer. These layers are all built on top of each other. You can move a mask layer onto other layers, change its opacity, and resize the canvas to edit it. PICTURE TUTORIALS: A Quick Study of Photoshop This section gives you a quick tour of Photoshop with a number of tutorials to show you how to use the program. They're all designed to make learning Photoshop easier by showing you some of the most used features and working methods. Setting Up a File for an Image Retouch You can use the canvas

Facials are photo effects that alter an image's appearance. For example, the Gradient tool can create a gradient that tapers from one color to another. The Pen tool can be used to draw around objects or erase areas. These are some of the most common Photoshop features; there are dozens more. If you wish to explore them, see the links below. Molecular and morphological changes induced by Paclitaxel in bovine hemocytes, Hepatocytes and brain tissues of the mice under oxidative stress: a possible role in allergic diseases. Here, we investigated the mechanisms behind Paclitaxel's (PTX) hepatotoxic and immunotoxic activities in BALB/c mice. Mice were immunized with ovalbumin (OA) and challenged with OA/PTX (ptx) or OA/saline(s) i.p. PTX significantly blocked both humoral and cell-mediated immunization, but exerted no effect on the anti-OA antibodies' titers and cellular immune responses in the absence of OA/PTX. In contrast, PTX administration failed to inhibit OA/PTX-induced humoral and cell-mediated immune responses in the presence of OA/PTX. Sera from OA/PTX-immunized mice strongly elevated hepatocyte apoptosis in normal mice, in which an increase in the levels of malondialdehyde and reactive oxygen species (ROS) and a reduction in glutathione (GSH) were accompanied by the cytochrome P450 (CYP) 3A activity. Importantly, PTX administration led to a marked increase in ROS levels, decrease in GSH levels, and elevated CYP3A4 activity in OA/PTX-immunized mice, whereas these changes were absent in mice receiving OA/PTX/s. Our results suggest that the oxidative stress induced by PTX administration might play an essential role in the modulation of humoral and cellular immunity, leading to the development of allergic diseases.

Q: Django Rest Framework, urls, views and nested resources I'm still learning Django Rest Framework. I have the following models: class City(models.Model): id = models.AutoField(primary_key=True) name = models.CharField(max_length=200, blank=False) location = models.CharField(max_length=200, blank=False) class Point(models.Model): city = models.ForeignKey(City) # other stuff class Line(models.Model): id = models.AutoField(primary_key=True) city1 = models.ForeignKey(City) city2 = models.ForeignKey(City) point1 = models.ForeignKey(Point) point2 = models.ForeignKey(Point) So the cities have multiple points. And the points have multiple lines. I've been working on adding nested resources for the Point model as mentioned in this section of the documentation (point2, point3, point4). The problem is that my current urls don't work with this structure. I have no idea why. This is the current urls.py: from django.conf.urls import include, url from django.contrib import admin from rest_framework import routers, viewsets from mysite.apps.app1.models import City from mysite.apps.app2.models import Point router = routers.SimpleRouter() router.register(r'cities', viewsets.CitiesViewSet) router.register(r'points', viewsets.PointViewSet) router.register(r'lines', viewsets.LineViewSet) urlpatterns = [url(r'^admin/', include(router.urls)),] urlpatterns += [# Example URL Patterns url(r'^api/v1/cities/', include(router.urls)), url(r'^api/v1/points/', include(router.urls)), url(r'^api/v
